Hedron on the March

Long awaited V-E Day was joyfully heralded by all Commands at NAS, Tillamook, who interrupted their daily routines at 1130 to assemble at the station chapel for a half hour of prayer and thanksgiving.

Present on the platform were the following commanding and executive officers: Station's Capt. T. M. Whelan and Lt. Comdr. D. R. MacDonald; Squadron's Capt. F. N. Klein, Jr. and Lt. Comdr. V. A. Jennings, Capt. E. P. Norberg of the Marines and Hedron's Officer-in-charge Lt. R. W. .Gibson Group singing of "America" opened the ceremonies. Chaplain Richard Bryan read Psalms of thanksgiving before discussing the real significance of our hard-won victory.

Thomas L. Anderson, S1c, sang "God of the Nations, Near and Far," after which Father Michael of Tillamook added his comments and blessings.

Speaking for all commands, Lt. Comdr. D. R. MacDonald briefly but emphatically stated that V-E Day meant intensified activity for all West Coast Naval activities.

The singing of the Navy hymn before the chaplain's benediction brought the ceremonies to a close.

Navy Provides Speakers

Later in the afternoon Chaplain Bryan addressed a V-EDay assembly at the Tillamook Senior High School while Lt. (jg) Constance Bordwell spoke to a similar group at the Liberty school.

BEACHCOMBERS, BEWARE!

Western Sea Frontier Headquarters in San Francisco issues a warning to all self-appointed bomb disposal officers, who spot mines washing ashore along the northern Pacific Coast.

Proper Procedure

If you find a mine carried to the Oregon shore from mine fields in the Pacific area, follow this procedure:

Mark the location. If practicable, post a guard at least 100 yards from the mechanism. Don't handle it! Restrain that impulse to throw rocks at the device; a hit may be fatal. Report immediately to the nearest Navy or Coast Guard activity, by telephone if possible.

Mines encountered may be of several varieties, but are not difficult to identify. Generally they are spherical in shape, about three feet in diameter, equipped with several "horns" and, if long immersed, may be encrusted with barnacles.

! ! BUY NAVY BONDS ! !

On 15 May, the Treasury's "Mighty" Seventh War Loan was launched nationally on the heels of world-resounding victory news. However, the Navy is asking all members of its family—civilian and Naval personnel —to restrain that impulse to buy now, and hoard for Navy's Independence Day Cash War Bond Drive scheduled to run from 22 June to 7 July.

Civilian bonds bought through Navy agencies will be credited to the communities in which buyers live.

Search For Peace

(From an address by H. Struve Hensel, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.)

We are soon to be given another chance in the search for peace. I trust we will make more of that chance than we did of the last one.

War is undoubtedly one of the scourges of mankind. That statement has been made so many times that it is almost as self-evident as the multiplication tables. Everyone is enthusiastically in favor of the complete disappearance of war from this globe. I think, however, that the reason we have not achieved such an end is that our attempts to prevent war have not been sufficiently realistic. Our efforts for peace have never been as coldly factual as our efforts to win a war once it started.

Our principal approach to peace has been to talk frequently of its blessings and to avoid the subject of war. We have acted as if we believed that the mentioning of war always in the past tense would tend to lay the ghost. We turned to aspirations and wishful thinking. We ignored the clinical lessons of history. We were not educated to analyze the causes of war as physicians do the causes of a disease. Although preferring health, we have interested ourselves little in preventive medicine. And war came and came again—twice within the memory of one generation. Just as germs and disease thrive in the neglect of sanitation and prevention, so war seems to come inescapably to those who neglect its causes and early symptoms.

SQUADRON HOST TO CANADIANS

On 24 April, a group of Royal Canadian flyers, under the command of Squadron Leader W. F. Cameron, Senior Flying Control Officer, Western Air Command, headquartered at Vancouver, British Columbia, visited NAS, Tillamook to observe the blimp air-sea rescue procedure.

As guests of Captain F. N. Klein, Jr., Squadron Commander, all the visiting Canadians went aloft in a blimp to observe the practice rescue of Lt. (jg) Bruce Kelly, Squadron Pilot, from the surface of Tillamook Bay by standard Navy BuAer Approved Rescue Gear.

Lt. George Woerfel piloted the rescue airship with combat air-crew no. C.A.C. 302, commanded by Lt. (jg) E. M. Babb.

The actual pick-up was highly successful, according to Captain Klein who was gratified by the excellent performance of his men. It inspired these words from Squadron Leader Cameron, "Amazing . . . finest piece of airmanship I have seen for a long while. It will give me re-newed confidence on ocean flights."

GUNNER GOES FISHING

After 31 years of Naval service, Chief Gunner H. F. Hudlow, USN, was detached on 1 May with a two-months leave tucked away in his pocket. He and his wife are heading for Key West, Florida, where after some real deep-sea fishing, he will return to inactive duty status and apply for a job in the Navy yard at Key West.

A veteran of World War 1 (submarine service), Mr. Hudlow reported aboard in June, 1944, from Alameda, California. During the absence of Lt. Neely, he served as Gunnery Officer. He subsequently acted as Assistant Gunnery and Ordnance Officer.

Smooth sailing to a genuine "old salt".

LT. WICKS LOGS OUT

On 14 May, Lt. Guy P. Wicks, USN, Station Welfare and Recreation Officer, was detached and ordered to report to San Francisco for further assignment, after more than two years of duty at NAST.

After temporary duty, at Com13, he reported to Tillamook in February, 1943. He has served in the capacity of Welfare and Recreation Officer and War Bond Officer during his tour of duty here.

Before joining the Navy, Mr. Wicks was coach of basketball and football at the University of Idaho at Moscow.

His family, who have been with him here, his wife, Grace, and two children, Donald and Jain, are returning to Jenessee, Idaho, when Mr. Wicks leaves.

In Mr. Wick's own words—"I regret to leave Tillamook and feel fortunate in having come in contact with such friendly officers and crew. Also I feel that the town of Tillamook has been very cooperative toward all Navy undertakings."

Good luck from NAST to a mighty fine officer!

One of the officers responsible for the building of NAST, Mr. Magoon's major contribution has been in the field of transportation. He was also in charge of civilian personnel and did much to promote good working relations among this group.

WAVES SEW A FINE SEAM

Latest piece of equipment aboard the WAVES Barracks is an antiquated treadle sewing machine, which has already been put to use by the more domestic of the blueskirts.

Selected by Ensign Irene Johnson, an instructor in Home Economics prior to joining the Navy, the sturdy machine will give the girls an opportunity to train for that important post-war job—home and husband.

Chief Bos'n W. T. McLaughlin

"SALTY MUSTANG" STEPS UP

Nautical Encyclopedia for Naval and Civilian personnel is Chief Boatswain W. T. McLaughlin, who recently received word that he was advanced to that rank as of June, 1944.

In 1923 "Boats" joined the Navy as an apprentice seaman and reported for boot training at Newport, R. I. From there he was transferred to the Pacific Fleet aboard the USS Idaho. Later he served on the old coal-burning cruiser, USS Cleveland, until it was de-commissioned in October 1929.

In the passing years he served aboard cruisers, destroyers, battlewagons, and ashore. The outbreak of war found him aboard the USS Laffey, engaged in convoying crippled ships back to the states. The Laffey was sunk in action off Guadalcanal in 1942 and later received the Presidential citation.

After being advanced to Warrant Boatswain, Mr. McLaughlin was transferred to Dutch Harbor, Alaska, in December of 1942, to skipper the USS Osamerin, tug boat engaged in salvage work from Attu and Kiska.

He came to Tillamook in June 1944 after eight months in the Naval Hospital, San Diego, Calif., and was assigned duties as Transportation and Safety Officer.

Son in Service

Following in his father's footsteps is 2nd Lieutenant Thomas J. McLaughlin with the 15th A.A.F. in Italy, who was awarded the Air Medal and the Oak Leaf Cluster for action over Germany. A navigator, he was recently reported missing in action.

Marine News

Marine Captain Reports

We are proud to present our new Commanding Officer, Captain Earl P. Nordberg, U.S.M.C.R., (see pix, page 3) who has joined us from the potato state, Idaho. A man of four years service and fifteen months of that in the Aleutians, the Captain welcomed his call of duty here in Tillamook. He hails from Utah, but much of his duty has been in these wonderous states.

Mrs. Norberg arrived in Tillamook from Seattle recently, and the Captain has been beaming ever since. The Marine Barracks and its men welcome you, Captain and Mrs. Nordberg!

It is wonderful to wake up in the mornings now, feel the warmth of sunshine, look down through the valley wrapped in peaceful haze, and hear the early raising voices singing in the morn. This, my folks, is Tillamook!

The men of the Marine Barracks are out bright and shiny for morning troop and guard mount, then off on a day of school and drills and even painting, an art at which many excell.

Spring is in the air and so is romance. These lazy afternoons bring all the thrills of a cozy beach, getting that summer brown that even the WAVES of the sea love to gaze upon!

We have a few new men with us coming from all points: Sgt. H. E. Enoch, Pvt. Castiglione, Pfc. F. Langfelt. Welcome, fellows!

CHIEF CLERK CHANGES DUTY

On 11 May, Miss Gene Loop, Chief Clerk of the station, received orders, which took her to Naval Auxiliary Air Station at Hollister, California, for similar duties.

Present at the commissioning of the station in December, 1942, Miss Loop has handled, as Assistant Chief Clerk, much of the paper work which transformed the Tillamook cow pasture into a smart military station. Upon the transfer of the Chief Clerk, Evelyn Grimwood, in January 1945, she was appointed Chief Clerk, a position she had filled in a competent, efficient manner.

Although Miss Loop is a native Oregonian, claiming McMinnville as her home town and Oregon State College as her alma mater, she reported from Moffett Field, California.

Her many friends among naval and civilian personnel wish her well in her new assignment.

A SAILOR'S LAMENT

I think that I shall never rave
About another Navy WAVE.
A WAVE whose appetite's no fake,
Who orders caviar and steak.
A WAVE who with me looks at stars,
Then turns her head for silver bars.
A WAVE who must forever wear
Six inches chopped off her hair.
A WAVE who likes to stay out late
But can't be kissed at her front gate.
Oh give me strength, my soul to save,
And never date another WAVE.
